Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Songs of a Deeper Note The Prodigal O Me unhappy, How base, how low, how abject my condition! Quick has been my descent, complete my ruin, I, like a young and goodly tree, am fallen And in the mire and filth am prostrate lying, While now my healthy trunk should rise o ertopping The other trees o the wood. There, should my branches Be ever touched by fairest gales from heaven, And each day should they grow in grace and beauty, Wretch that I am! The swine that I am feeding Are nobler than am I among Gods creatures, For they were bred in filth, in filth were littered, Their instincts base; their natures are ignoble, While I, well born and given a virtuous training, By mine own folly have begot my ruin, By my own vices wrought I my disgraces. Hungry I rise from out a fitful slumber, And with the food of swine I break my fasting. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more...
