Excerpt: .Congress at Paris, in 1878, by the same writer, to which the Report of Mr. Jenkins, Assistant Commissioner to the Duke of Richmond, on the Agriculture of the Netherlands and Belgium, was in some sort intended to be an answer. Some of Mr. Jenkins statements have been challenged by Professor Beaujon (see Major Craigie s Paper already quoted, p. 38); but they do not very much affect the question discussed in this volume; and, lastly, there are the Eeports of the other Assistant Commissioners in 1880, to which I have so frequently referred, and who on this question of small holdings do but reproduce the evidence and echo the opinions to be found in the former Eeports of 1867-9, on which my original estimate was based. Besides these, there are many other writers who have travelled over the same ground since I last explored...
